MOTOROLA INC.'S MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION TO STAY
THE LITIGATION PENDING THE OUTCOME OF REEXAMINATION
PROCEEDINGS AND ITS MOTION FOR COSTS AND ATTORNEYS' FEES

MOTOROLA, INC., a Delaware corporation; and DOES 1-100,

Defendants

Defendant Motorola, Inc. (“Motorola”) hereby moves the Court to stay this case pending the outcome of two reexaminations before the United States Patent and Trademark Office (“PTO”) of the only asserted patent in this case, just as this Court has already stayed five other lawsuits before this Court for the duration of the reexamination proceedings. Motorola also moves the Court to award its attorneys fees and costs for the present motion.

1 I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

2 Plaintiff Jens Erik Sorensen as Trustee of the Sorensen Research and Development Trust 3 ("Sorensen") was the owner of United States Patent No. 4,935,184 ("the '184 Patent") which 4 expired on February 5, 2008. On July 30, 2007, a third party request for an ex parte
 5 reexamination of the '184 Patent was filed with the PTO. United States Patent and Trademark 6 Office's Order Granting Request for Ex-Parte Reexamination of U.S. Patent No. 4,935,184,
 7 issued on October 11, 2007 ("First Reexamination") at 3, Ex. 1¹. In view of the First 8 Reexamination request, this Court, by order dated September 10, 2007, stayed litigation between 9 Sorensen and Black & Decker Corporation et al., concluding that although the litigation had been 10 ongoing for more than a year, a stay was warranted "to avoid the risk of unnecessary litigation 11 and to permit the clarification of the issues before this Court." Sorensen v. Black & Decker Corp.
 12 et al. ("Black & Decker"), Case No. 06-cv-1572 BTM CAB, Doc. #243 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 10, 13 2007) (the "Black & Decker Stay Order") at 10, Ex. 2.

14 On October 11, 2007, the PTO granted the First Reexamination request citing eight pieces 15 of prior art that raised thirteen substantial new questions of patentability. See First 16 Reexamination, at 5-16. Another third party request for reexamination of the '184 Patent was 17 filed with the PTO on December 21, 2007 and two months later, the PTO accepted this second 18 request, citing eight additional pieces of prior art that raised nine different substantial questions of 19 patentability. See United States Patent and Trademark Office's Order Granting Request for Ex-
 20 Parte Reexamination of U.S. Patent No. 4,935,184, issued on February 21, 2008 ("Second 21 Reexamination"), Ex. 3. Thus, together, the First Reexamination and the Second Reexamination
 22 (collectively the "Reexaminations") cite 16 pieces of prior art and the PTO has identified 21
 23 substantial new questions of patentability arising from that prior art.

24 Undaunted in the face of the Reexaminations, Sorensen thereafter filed more than 20

26 ¹ Unless otherwise indicated, all references to "Ex. __" refer to the ordered exhibits 27 attached to the Declaration of Eric J. Lobenfeld in Support of Motorola's Motion to Stay ("Dec. of E. Lobenfeld"), sworn to April 9, 2008.

1 related lawsuits in this Court, including the instant action against Motorola on January 23, 2008.
 2 This Court has presently stayed four of these related actions in addition to Black & Decker.² In 3 each of these four stay orders, this Court included two measures to ensure that Sorensen would 4 not be prejudiced by the stay. First, the Court stated that, “if it appears that the reexamination 5 will not be effected within a reasonable time, [Sorensen] may move to vacate the stay.” And two,
 6 “any party may apply to the Court for an exception to the stay if it has specific valid reasons to 7 believe that it needs to obtain discovery in order to preserve evidence that will otherwise be 8 unavailable after the stay.” Giant Int’l Stay Order; Helen of Troy Stay Order; Esseplast Stay 9 Order; Energizer Stay Order.

10 In light of the five stays already issued by this Court, Motorola proposed that the parties 11 stipulate to a stay of the instant action. Decl. of E. Lobenfeld, ¶ 9, Ex. 8. Motorola offered to 12 include in the stipulation the very same measures to protect Sorensen if the Reexaminations take 13 too long or if Sorensen believes that it needs to obtain discovery. Id. For no valid reason, 14 Sorensen rejected Motorola’s proposed stipulation for a stay, asserting that this action is 15 somehow different from Black & Decker, Giant Int’l, Helen of Troy, Esseplast and Energizer
 16 (“Black & Decker et al”). When asked how this action differs and asked why a stay was 17 unwarranted, Sorensen could not elaborate other than referencing its analysis of recent 18 reexamination statistics (“Sorensen Analysis”) that it had made in Energizer. Id. After pointing 19 out that this argument had already been made, and had not persuaded the Court, which stayed the 20 Energizer case, Sorensen still refused to stipulate to a stay and claimed that information in its 21 possession led it to believe that a stay in this case was not appropriate. When pressed for more
 22 details, Sorensen offered nothing further except the same arguments about reexamination 23

24 ² Sorensen v. Giant Int’l, et al. (“Giant Int’l”), Case No. 07-cv-2121 BTM (CAB), Doc. #28
 25 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 28, 2008) (“Giant Int’l Stay Order”) Ex. 4; Sorensen v. Helen of Troy, et al.
 26 (“Helen of Troy”), Case No. 07-cv-2278 BTM (CAB), Doc. #26 (S.D. Cal. Feb 28, 2008) (“Helen 27 of Troy Stay Order”) Ex. 5; Sorensen v. Esseplast USA, Inc. et al. (“Esseplast”), Case No. 07-cv-2277 BTM (CAB), Doc. #14 (S.D. Cal. Jan. 28, 2008) (“Esseplast Stay Order”) Ex. 6; Sorensen
 v. Energizer Holdings, Inc. (“Energizer”), Case No. 07-cv-2321 BTM (CAB), Doc. #21 (S.D.
 Cal. Jan. 31, 2008) (“Energizer Stay Order”) Ex. 7.

1 statistics that had failed to persuade this Court in Energizer. Id. With no other choice, Motorola 2 was forced to make this motion.

3 II. THERE ARE NO DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THIS ACTION AND BLACK &
 4 DECKERER ET AL, ACCORDINGLY THE COURT SHOULD GRANT A STAY

5 Motorola will not burden the Court by repeating the arguments already stated in Black &
 6 Decker et al. In each of those actions, based on their specific facts and circumstances, the Court
 7 correctly recognized that a stay was warranted. The Court, we submit, should do the same here.
 8 There is no difference between this action and Black & Decker et al that would make a stay of 9 these proceedings unwarranted, and Motorola leaves it to Sorensen to try and articulate one.

10 Even if there were some colorable difference between this action and Black & Decker et 11 al, as Sorensen is well aware, the Court can grant the same protective measures that will avoid 12 any undue prejudice. For starters, Sorensen can seek to vacate the stay if the Reexaminations
 13 appear to be taking too long. If Sorensen ultimately prevails, this Court may award prejudgment
 14 interest that would fully compensate Sorensen for any loss caused by a delay in collecting 15 damages. Also, this Court can fashion a means to address any issues Sorensen has concerning the 16 preservation of evidence. If Sorensen can point to a specific need to obtain discovery, this Court 17 may allow it.

18 Until Sorensen can say why this case is different from Black & Decker et al in some way
 19 that makes a difference, and why the Court's protective measures would not address such a 20 difference, the litigation should be stayed. Because Sorensen cannot do this, it has needlessly 21 wasted the parties' and the Court's resources by forcing this motion.

22 III. THE COURT SHOULD AWARD MOTOROLA ATTORNEYS' FEES BECAUSE 23 SORENSEN, THROUGH ITS COUNSEL, FORCED THIS MOTION IN BAD FAITH

24 Sorensen and its attorneys have wasted the Court's and the parties' time and resources by 25 forcing the present motion. Under 28 U.S.C. §1927, "[a]ny attorney...who so multiplies the 26 proceedings in any case unreasonably and vexatiously may be required by the court to satisfy

1 personally the excess costs, expenses and attorneys' fees reasonably incurred because of such 2 conduct." A court may impose sanctions under §1927 where an attorney acted in "bad faith, 3 with improper motive, or a reckless disregard of the duty owed to the court." Landis Revin
4 Nutraceuticals v. Arthur Andrew Medical, Inc., 2007 WL 397144 *5 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 1, 2007)
5 (citing New Alaska Develop. Corp. v. Guetchow, 869 F.2d 1298, 1306 (9th Cir. 1989)).
6 Similarly, under its inherent authority, the Court may impose sanctions where it makes a specific 7 finding that an attorney or a party acted in bad faith, vexatiously, wantonly or for oppressive
8 reasons. Id. (citing Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 43 (1991)). Courts may impose 9 sanctions where counsel forces the opposing side to move a court for an order that is clearly 10 warranted. See Id. at *5-6 (imposing sanctions on an attorney who forced the opposing side to 11 move to set aside default judgments, despite the attorney knowing that he did not have valid proof 12 of service).

13 Here, Sorensen refused to stipulate to a stay, citing the unsuccessful Sorensen Analysis to 14 Motorola on two separate occasions. After the first occasion, Motorola pointed out that the 15 Sorensen Analysis had not changed this Court's thinking. Expecting different results by doing
16 the same thing over and over, Sorensen continued to refuse a stipulation by repeating its failed 17 argument. Sorensen forced Motorola to act despite knowing that it cannot win this motion on the 18 basis of the Sorensen Analysis. Sorensen has already had five bites at the apple, and each time it 19 has come up empty handed. Without advancing any new arguments, Sorensen believes that it 20 should get another try so that it can needlessly waste the Court's and Motorola's time and 21 resources. This Court should rebuke Sorensen for that notion and award costs and attorneys' fees.

1 IV. CONCLUSION

2 For the foregoing reasons, this case should be stayed pending the outcome of the 3 Reexaminations. The validity of '184 Patent is presently in doubt and these proceedings should 4 be stayed until that doubt is either confirmed or erased. Also, the Court should award Motorola 5 its costs and attorneys' fees for this motion. Sorensen needlessly forced the Court to decide an 6 issue that it has addressed on no less than five other occasions.
